In Brief, and to the Point.
Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, menial worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made Americans a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters to all who are suffering from it. I have sold it given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of gastritis of ten years standing." Abram H. Marx, druggist, Bellfontaine, affirms: "The best selling medicine have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of other physicians and druggists say that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the liver, kidneys or blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson & Co., Drug store.

Fryer is on each, as none are genuine without it.

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulence and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents.

W. PINNIGER, Druggist.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Fort Davis, in the discovery of J. E. Correy, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. He was sent to New Mexico, where he was sent to the hospital. New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. D. N. C. New Cure; by the time he had taken two boxes of it, and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this great Discovery are at S. J. Hodgkinson & Co's.

Don't let any Throat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Catarrh or Whooping Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10 and 50 cents.

W. PINNIGER, Druggist.

Unnecessary Misery.

Probably no much misery comes from habitual constipation, as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed. Hence, I have prepared to obviate this difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. 25 cents. At all druggists. J. J. Mack & Co., proprietors, F. F.

An Absolute Cure.

The ORIGINAL SANTA ABIE OINTMENT is only put up in large two-ounce tin boxes, and is an absolute cure for old sores, burns, wounds, chapped hands, and skin eruptions, and all kinds of piles. Ask for the ORIGINAL ABIEE OINTMENT. Sold by Osburn & Shoemaker at 25 cents per box by mail 50 cents.

The REASON Why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the whole system, and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Remember, we guarantee it.

W. PINNIGER, Druggist.

A New Mexican Sunset.

The Eastern weather men often report disturbances originating in the Rocky Mountains. In and beyond the surrounding mountains, near and far, are the many caves of Helots, the laboratories of nature's electricity, the arsenals of the celestial artillery, and the peaks which make the sympathetic clouds give down. Often the still air is suddenly surprised by a breeze from some unexpected quarter, as if some mountain god of the winds had awaked. And it may cease suddenly, and as suddenly may come from another quarter.

From the Santa Fe basin may be seen in the mountain panoramas several distinct showers at once, with clear sky between. Often the setting sun displays several rainbows at once, with suggestions of more. Last week a rainbow, springing from the mountain top, with a breadth more like a tower, had an illumination more like a column of fire than the usual rainbow faintness. But this was rare even for that wonder.

While all is scene over the valley, the lightning may be giving grand shows in the mountains. Sometimes a diffusing light cloud between gives the effect of a general illumination.

Who can conceive, without having seen it, the scene in which the sun, having set from a great bank of singularly leaden clouds about a streak of clear sky at the horizon, which it changed to a brilliant golden, then from behind the mountain lighted up the edges of the leaden clouds to a bright silver, then gradually changed this to a fire red, strangely contrasting with the growing black; this display reaching far toward the zenith, and wide in the horizon?

Meanwhile, the reflection from the west illuminated several distinct showers in the south to a golden rain, and gave a red color to light clouds at the zenith and in the east. And while all this gorgeous show was going on in the west, south, and east, a black cloud with vivid lightning was spreading over all the north, its western edge reddened with the incandescent illumination. And so long was this the reflection that when the thunder-cloud brought a shower in the valley, the color was of a golden mist. (S. Romeo Reed, in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)

Sienese Nobility.

Let the reader not figure to himself a broad, straight level when I speak of Via Sienese, as the main street; it is only not so narrow and steep and curving as the rest, and a little more light gets into it, but there is one level, and one alone, in all Siena, and that is the Lizza, the public promenade, which looks very much like an artificial level. It is planted with pleasant little books and trim hedges, beyond which lurk certain cafes and beer houses, and has walks and a drive. On a Sunday afternoon of February, when the military band played there, and I was told that the fine world of Siena resorted to the Lizza, we hurried thither to see it; but we must have come to late. The band were blowing the drops of distilled music out of their instruments, and shutting them up, and on the drive there was but one equipage worthy of the name. Within this carriage sat a refined looking boy—delicate, pale, the expression of an effete aristocracy—and beside him sat a very stout, gray-muscled, side-whiskered, eagle-faced, elderly gentleman, who took snuff out of a gold box, and looked like Old Desdemona in person. I felt, at first sight of them, that I had met the Siennese nobility, whom otherwise I did not see; and yet I do not say that they may not have been a prosperous fabricant of Panforte and his son. A few young bucks, with fierce trotting ponies, in two seated sulkihs, hammered round the drive; the crowd on foot was mostly a cloaked and slouch-hat crowd, which, in Italy, is always a plebeian crowd. There were no ladies, but many women of less degree, pretty enough, well-dressed enough, and radiantly smiling. In the center of the place stood a resplendent group of officers, who kept quite to themselves. We would not feel that we had mingled greatly in the social gayeties of Siena, and we wandered off to climb the bastions of the old Medicina fort, very bold with its shield and palle over the gateway—and listened to the bees humming in the oleander hedge beneath.—(W. D. Howells, in the Century.)

Mexican Car Conductors.

There are a few short open cars in Mexico, but the great majority are close ones, with the windows down, except in cold or rainy weather. Each body smokes as much as he pleases on any car, from conductor to driver. Smoking is as universal here that a prohibition of smoking would make the people rise in revolt; they would regard it as an infringement of their dearest privileges.

Sometimes, I regret to say, the conductor has a novel and ready reply, to the neglect of noticing passengers halting his car from the sidewalk. The conductors do not take up tickets, but these are gathered by inspectors, who board the cars at regular stations and, after collection, make a comparison of books with the conductor. This system is said to work very well.—Mexican Letter.

Heros and Heroines.

There are a few who endure bodily torture without complaint. Did you ever meet among the heroes or heroines of your acquaintance—if any such there have been—one with a yellowish cast of countenance and jaundiced aspect, eyes which are dim, unexpressive, and recognize as the product of a disordered liver, who did not complain, and was free of all symptoms of disease? I call this one of pain beneath the right shoulder blade, of dyspeptic symptoms, constipation, and headache? Of course, he did, and of course the individual was not using Hostetters Stomach Bitters, or he would not so have looked—so have complained.

To purify and conduct the secretion into its proper channel, to re-establish regularity of the bowel, health of the head—ch and rectal—improvement for constipation, which can approach in efficacy this powerful alterative and tonic. Malaria complaints, also involving the liver and bladder, are easily and speedily remedied by it. It is a capital appetizer.

[No. 125.] SUPREME COURT OF NEVADA.

Charles Ferraris, Admr., &c., Respondent, vs.

M. Kyle, Appellant.

(By DELEMAP, J.)

Upon the former appeal the judgment of the District Court was reversed on the ground of failure of the plaintiff to establish such a possession as the personal property, and attaching the same as would satisfy the requirements of the Statute of Frauds. In reaching this conclusion the court held that the claim was fully set forth in the opinion of the Court. (Comita v. Kyle 5 U. S. C. R. 235, 19 Nov.)

In the second trial the testimony introduced by the plaintiff tended to establish the facts proven at the first trial, and, in addition thereto, the fact that the land in question was the estate of the plaintiff's intestate was included by a fence.

The assignments of error specify that the evidence is insufficient to justify the finding of the court that the claim of possession from vendor to vendee was shown. This objection is answered by the witness that the evidence of the plaintiff differed from that given at the former trial, and for the purpose of establishing the value of the claim offered in evidence the statement of the vendor for new trial and appeal used at the former hearing of the cause.

A statement upon motion for new trial and appeal is made for the purpose of explaining the errors upon which the court relied in its opinion at the first trial, it is for this purpose. Counsel frequently agreed to the correctness of a statement, not because all the evidence given at the trial, and these agreements are accepted as made for the purpose for which they are made. But in this case, the statements of the vendor of the land in question are really embody more of the evidence or rulings than counsel's agreement with any of the evidence adduced, and matters upon which no question is made, although a part of the history of the case, is set aside as unnecessary.

It is scarcely necessary to say, should not be received without preliminary proof that the report of the evidence is correct.

The next specification of error is to the refusal of the Court to allow the witness to testify for himself after his previous testimony had been given. This was issued upon his judgment against the vendor of plaintiff's intestate he built a new fence around the land in question.

The court, however, also offered to prove the condition of the old fence at the time of the construction of the new one, but an examination of the fence will show that this latter one was not made, and it is not, therefore, to be considered.

The offer relating to the building of the fence was not made with any intent to oppose the vendor's claim, but to prove the necessity for its construction, or that the inclosure was insufficient. The evidence of itself was insufficient, and was rejected by the court.

As defendant again sought to prove the condition of the fence at the time of the sale in the month of November, 1885, he did not do so before the trial, the purpose of the testimony was to prove the condition of the inclosure. The District Court correctly considered that a knowledge of the condition of a brush fence at the time of the trial was not a fact from which the jury could infer its condition twenty-nine months before.

After the remaining exception arose upon the refusal of the court to allow the witness to testify for himself, the instruction, identified in the transcript as defendant's instruction, No. 5. The instruction is self-explanatory and misinterpreted, and would have been rejected by the court.

The judgment and order of the District Court are affirmed.

SATURDAY JULY 23, 1887

The Texas Court of Appeals has not followed the example of the Supreme Court of Louisiana in the matter of taxes on commercial travelers. The Louisiana Court followed the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Robbins case, holding taxes upon commercial travelers from other States invalid. The Texas Court, on the other hand, has decided in the case of Ex parte Asher that State taxes upon drummers from other States are valid. The Texas Court uses the following extraordinary language regarding the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States:

Such decisions, no more than the decisions of State courts, are or should be binding upon the latter, if in themselves unwarranted assumptions of constitutional authority—innovations of federal power, where such power does not and never was intended to apply. Such decisions, however, when said decisions are directly in conflict with well adjudicated cases of the same court, which are not overruled, and which in addition to their equal authority are based upon fundamental and eternal principles of reason, justice and right. * * * The doctrine announced in the Robbins case, and which is here relied on, stands with its supporters in previous adjudications of the court in which it was laid down, and this, too, without overruling previous decisions of the same court in diametrical opposition to it. The Robbins case—decided by a divided court—is in direct conflict with a number of cases decided by the same court, and in which there was no such strong opinion on the question. Under such circumstances we do not feel bound by the Robbins decision, and not believing it to be the law of the land, we will not consider it of binding force upon us.

Mexico has a new volcano. In this age of earthquakes and general internal activity, no country that expects to be of much account among the nations can afford to be without a good working volcano, and therefore we congratulate our neighbor upon this evidence of spirit in the bowels of the land that intends to make itself felt. Volcanoes and freedom go together. Daniel Webster said that no people with a catastrophe in their country ever lost their liberty. The truth is that the people living in the presence of these great demonstrations of the force of nature—catastrophes or volcanoes—have their minds so tuned to great things, that pygmy kings cannot keep them down. We have a round dozen volcanoes of our own, remarks the New York Journal, and we are the finest people on earth. South America is covered all over with them like a small boy's face with freckles—and where is the king that can hold his own in South America? He does not live. Look at Leeland. Can any king hold that country? No king wants to try it. If a king should step ashore anywhere in Sicily it would burn his boots off. Ireland has no volcano, but "the plan of the campaign" is a pretty good substitute.

Nevada's Land Agent at Washington, Hon. C. S. Young, is getting matters in such shape that applicants for State lands who have been patiently awaiting their title will now be satisfied. Lists covering nearly 60,000 acres have been passed upon by the heads of the departments of the General Land Office and now wait the signature of Commissioner Sparks. Lists covering 200,000 acres more will be acted upon immediately. General J. E. Jones, of the State Land Office, sent to Washington yesterday non-mineral affidavits covering 116,500 acres more of State lands. A non-mineral affidavit is all that Commissioner Sparks requires in order to satisfy him in regard to the land; it is very probable that nearly 400,000 acres will be patented to the State by the General Government in a short time.

According to a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Illinois, where a person procures a policy of insurance upon his life payable to his wife, who pays all the premiums except two or three with her own means, she will take all the benefit of the same to the exclusion of creditors of her husband's estate, and the fact that he may have willed the same to her will not change the rule.

St. Louis, July 23.

The Chicago and Rock Island railway recently sent a surveying party through the mountains of Nevada and California for the purpose of discovering a practical route between the Central and Southern Pacific. This party returned a short time ago reported a route beginning some distance from Fort Wingate, N. M., crossing the Colorado river some distance above Grand Canyon, passing through Puebla, Tybo and Owens river valley, crossing the Sierras through King's pass, emerging in the vicinity of Lake Tahoe, California, and following the San Joaquin valley to the coast. The line runs through a low pass, where but little grading will be necessary. Should this route be adopted the great mineral region of the Pioche country will be rendered available.

Not Easily Frightened.

PHILIPSBURG, Montana, July 23.

Early yesterday a band of 30 men, headed by F. L. Currie, Superintendent of the San Francisco mine and Louis Deers and Sam Tolman, and told them they must leave town, accompanied them to the offices on the road. On the route the men were subjected to rough usage, a rope being put around their necks, and according to some statements, they being drawn up. When they were left it was with a warning not to return at the peril of their lives. Not being the warning, Deers and Tolman returned to town, and, claiming the protection of the officials, swore out warrants for a number of the alleged assailants. The affair created great excitement. The alleged cause of the outrage is that the men had jumped certain claims in the district.

The Alien Act.

WASHINGTON, July 23.

Referring to the cable dispatch from London in regard to Attorney General Garland's opinion on the Alien Act, it is stated that the opinion was given to the President some time ago. The President had asked for an opinion, a request of certain persons connected with mining operations, who desired a copy of certain information. The opinion never chance to be given for publication, although at no time regarded as secret. It was given to the Associated Press to-night. The Attorney General, in reply to the President, considers the various sections of the Act of March 3, 1887, at great length. His conclusion are summed up as follows:

First.—As mines are real estate, or inhabitable interests in real estate, the Act does not apply to them.

Second.—A stock incorporation is personally an alien, and can lawfully have, hold and own shares of stock issued by an American corporation which is now the owner of mineral lands in the territory, but the hold by aliens of 20 per cent of the corporation can neither acquire, hold, nor thereafter acquire real estate while more than twenty per cent of the stock is held and owned by aliens.

Third.—Under the Act the advancement of money hereafter by aliens for the purpose of developing mining property is lawful, but no alien can extend credit to another, unless by such advancement he would be an alien and have any right to purchase the real estate or any interest therein on a loan made since the passage of the Act, even if sold on his own security or lie.

Fourth.—Aliens may lawfully contract with American owners to work mines by contracts for hire, or by bona fide leases for a reasonable time, provided the miners are not employed to do work which contradicts the spirit of the law.

He then went to the barn, leaving the family in bed. The flames enveloped them unawares. Mrs. McDonald got out alone. Mrs. Finley was overcome in the doorway. Her father arrived and dragged her out, but thinking the baby already out left it to its fate.

LOCAL NEWS.

Happenings of the Day in Reno and Vicinity.

John Robinson's Circus. Another immense audience greeted John Robinson's "ten big shows combined" last night. The evening being warm and sultry it was believed by the management that they had received the bulk of their patronage in the afternoon, and consequently one section of seats was taken out and loaded onto the cars. But the crowd kept pouring in until it looked at one time as though many would have to stand or sit on the ground. Like that given in the afternoon, the performance was good. Every feature of it was roundly applauded. The bareback riding of the Misses Maud D'Alma and Josie DeMott was acknowledged to be the best ever seen in Nevada. The latter lady especially won the hearts of all who came to witness youth, beauty, daring and merit combined. The trapeze performances of D'Alma and Bonetez, the artistic bicycle riding of the D'Alma family, the tumbling, hurdle riding, jockey riding, Calédonian sports, horizontal bar exercises, slack wire walking, riding dog, etc., etc., were all good and meritorious. The programme was in no way slighted. Many say the performance was even longer and better than that given in the afternoon.

The Moore Case.

There was nothing new developed in the Moore case this morning. Mrs. Highlands, a daughter of the accused, who was at home in Glendale at the time of her sister Alice's death, was recalled to the witness stand, where she remained until a quarter to 11 o'clock. Mrs. Genia, the daughter who testified yesterday, was also recalled and questioned closely concerning the affidavit bearing on her sister's death that she signed at her home in Washington Territory shortly after the arrest of her father. The principal object of the cross-examination was to learn of symptoms shown by Alice prior to her death, the particular for the defense being particularly anxious to establish the belief that she died from poison administered by herself and that she suffered several convulsions. The said affidavit recites that the witness stated that her sister Alice had a fit before she died. The witness denied having said anything about fits to the notary who wrote the affidavit, except that Alice was never subject to fits prior to the day of her death.

McDonald pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace. He will probably be sentenced this evening.

A Jubilee Defined.

Two Scotch fishwives in London were talking about the jubilee the other day. "Eh, wumman," said one to the other, "can ye tell me what a jubilee is, for I hear a' the folk spakin' about it?" "Ou ay," replied the other, "I can tell ye that; ye see, when a man and a wumman has been marrit for fifteen-and-twenty year, that's a siller waddin'; and when they've been marrit for fifty year that's a golden waddin'; but when the man's dead, that's a jubilee."

About a year ago I was attacked with typhoid fever. My physician treated me for some days, and I was so weak I thought I must die. Although at times delirious and suffering intense pain in the head and back, and punched up with fever, I still had sense enough to remember my box of Brandreth's Pills. I managed to get them and swallowed six, and then took a bowl of hot tea. My doctor had been afraid to give me a purge, I was so weak, but Brandreth's Pills made me stronger. As soon as they acted freely, my head cleared, fever abated, and I slept for ten hours. I continued taking three or four pills every night for a week and entirely recovered, although my doctor had given me up. Undoubtedly Brandreth's Pills saved my life.
